DEEP UNDERGROUND MILITARY BASE

The Raven Rock Mountain Complex is located near Ligonier PA in Adams County. It functions as the working backup for the Pentagon. It is 650 feet below the summit and has four entrances.

This notorious cryptic facility is built under Raven Rock Mountain. It is located near the Maryland – Pennsylvania border. It was built during the Cold War period and goes by names such as, Site R and the Underground Pentagon. It's mission is to facilitate the "Continuity of Operations Plan", which is a blueprint on how the government would position itself in case of a nuclear strike or some other catastrophe. Military planning and communications will be handled from this location. Not far from Site R in Virginia, is the Mount Weather Emergency Operations Center. It is controlled by FEMA and is the civilian counterpart to Site R.

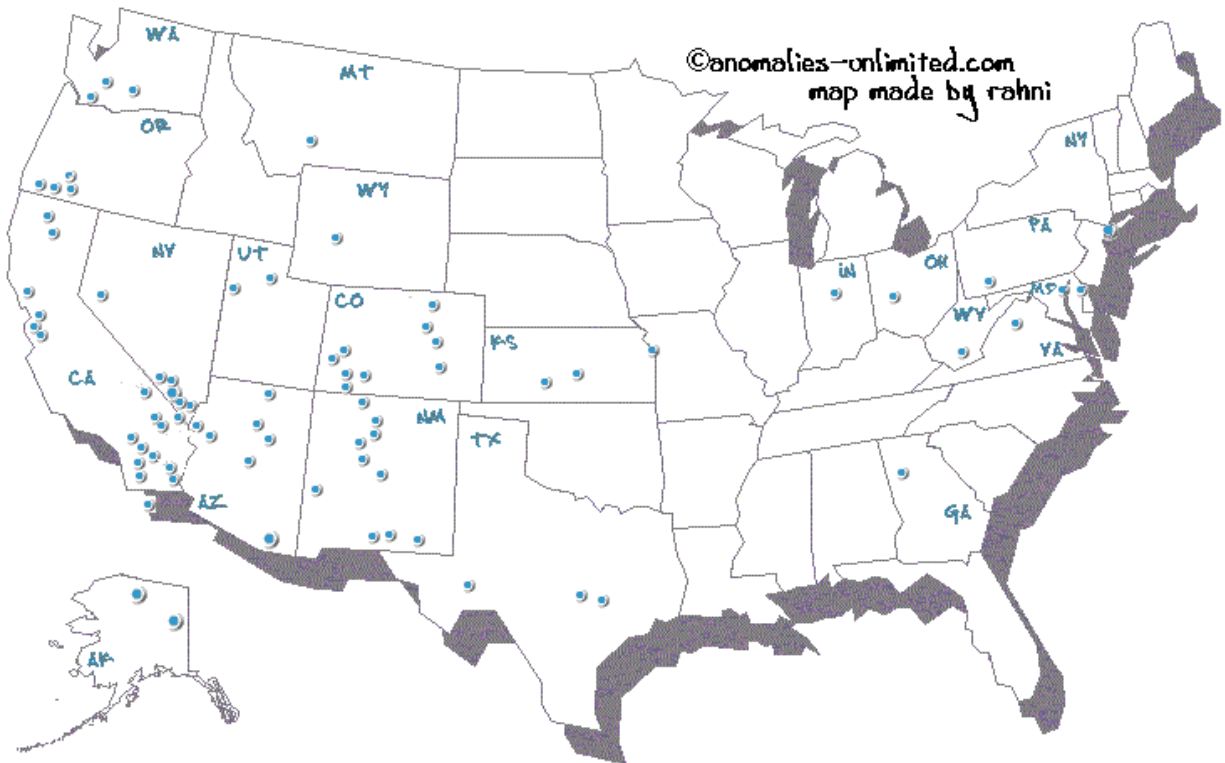

RAVEN ROCK / SITE R

It has been rumored that when 911 took place Vice President Cheney was taken to the Raven Rock facility.

There are alleged to be 57 D.U.M.B. locations in the United States. Some are known thru publicly available records and some information came from people that worked in them, lived by them and some from retired military personnel. These underground bases do get prominent play in the dark rumors of captured aliens and alien technology.

The above map shows the alleged base locations.

We at the UFO Research Center of Pennsylvania agree there are underground bases used by the military all over the world. These underground bases and fortifications exist in every country and have for many years.

The few we know about are products of the Cold War and we are meant to know about them. It's the ones we don't know about and what their purpose is. That is a bothersome question that lingers.
